"He Giveth His Beloved Sleep."

How soft, how tranquit is the bed.

Where the good must lays his praceful head?
He sleeps: no tear of harm is there.
For God hath heard his evening prayer:
He sleeps: and a bright Angel's wing
Around his couch is hovering.

And to the stricken child of God, who suffers heath the clustrining rod, who learns in this sid world of care. How much of grief the heart can bear, "Jis sweet—tho all "by long to weep,—At night to find the balm of sleep.

The angels waich his eyelids close, And joy to see his soft repose, They bend to whisper in his ear Dreams of the sunted and the dear; A boly spell around they throw, And he forgets the while his woe.

The erring heart, by sin distress'd, With such coin shep is never bless'd; The sting of tonscence tertures there, with keen remorse and butter care He dreams of ill, and danger near. And spends the night in gloom and fair.

Oh ve from whom sweet sleep both flown, On we from whom sweet sheep hath flown, who through long, werre nights will moan. Turn to His breast, a Saviour's breast, Turner ye shall find a quiet rest. He prices not sails, nor tears to weep, "He greath His beloved siller?"

MY SPIRIT'S HOME.

- Where is the home my spirit recks, Annd this world of sin and care. Where even joy of sorrow speaks. And death is lucking overs where? Of not smid its fading bowers. My secured soil can find rejose, For superus burk beneath its flowers, And theres surround its fairest rose
- The home of earth is not for me;
 For off my spirits dwelling hee;
 The eye of faith alone can see the pearly enter beyond the skies;
 The say of faith alone can hear.
 The mutic of its ceaseless song,
 As mearer with each passing year.
 Its angel-chorus rolls along.
- Think is the home my spirit cooks.
 Above the Saddles stars on high!
 Where not a word of discord broked.
 The silver chain of harmony.
 Where both without a shadow lies,
 And jow can spent without a text,
 And Death alone—the tyrint—disc;
 The home my spirit cooks is there!

Minute Miseries.

Half the misery of life comes from little torments. A door sets your teeth on edge. fifty times a day, with its squeaking, or one of your windows, owing to some trifling derangement, risks your breaking a blood vessel every time you shut it : or a blind drives you mad in the night with its bang -bang, because the "catch" is out of order Of course, a little oil on the door Imge, and the carpenter to the blind and windows would set all right, and of course you mean to do it, but, somehow, you are always too busy; or, you speak to the carpenter, and for the very same reason that you have neglected it so long, he pays no attention to so trifling a job. And so you keep on losing your temper, week after week, with a wretched prograstinating fatality quite incomprehensible to you, when on some fine, jolly morning they are all put right Of course nervous persons suppose they have the greatest accumulation of these petty miseries; and Job seems to their disordered fancy, to have made a great fuss about that which was really not worth mentioning beside the affliction of modern days

Eminence.

To set out in the world with no other principle than a crafty attention to self-interest, betokens one who is destined for creeping through the interior walks of life. But to give preference to honor above gain, when they stand in competition; to despise every advantage which cannot be attained without dishonest arts; to brook no meanness, to stoop to no dissimulation, are the indications of a great mind—the presages of future eminence and distinction in life.

Justice.

We ought always to deal justly, not only with those who are just to us, but likewise with those who endeavor to injure us; and this, too, for fear lest, by rendering them evil for evil, we should fall into the same vice. So we ought likewise to have friendship, that is to say, humanity and good will, for all who are of the same nature with us.

Home.

The man returns home in the evening harassed, suffering from toil, mental or bodily, from the weariness of worldly things, from the baseness of men; but in his reception at home there is such an infinite kindness-a calm so intense-that he hardly believes in the cruel realities he has gone through all the day. "No," he says, "that could not have been; it was but an ugly dream. There is but one real thing in the world, and that is you!"

GETTYSBURG, PA., MONDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1859.

The Noble Earl and the Honest Farmer. A farmer once called on the late Earl Fitzwilliam to represent that his crop of wheat had been seriously injured in a field adjoining a certain wood, where his lordship's hounds had, during the winter, frequently met to hunt. He stated that the young wheat had been so cut up and destroyed that in some parts he could not hope for any produce. "Well, my friend," said his lordship, "I am aware that we have done considerable injury; and if you can produce an estimate of the loss you have sustained, I will pay you." The farmer replied, that, anticipating his lord-hip's consideration and him in estimating the damage, and they thought, as the crop seemed quite destroyed, £50 would not more than pay him The Earl immediately gave him the money .you for your loss " "Yes, my lord, I find | the following request: that I have sustained no loss at all, for is what I like, this is as it should be be- tated to reply; but at length broke out tween man and man." He then entered with, into conversation with the farmer, asking "A him some questions about his family-how many children he had, &c His fordship all closed up entirely?" went into another 100m, and, returning, presented the farmer with a check for £1000, saying, "Take care of this, and when your oldest son is of age, present it to him, and tell him the occasion that produ- young lawyer to deliver an oration. A plain old gentleman went with his team to bring home his two sons, two young sprigs, who were soon expected to graduate While returning, they stopped at a hotel in one of the country towns for dinner. The landlord, struck with the dashing appearance of the gentlemen, made himself very officious, while he took the old man, from his homespun appearance, to be nothing but a driver, and asked them if they wished the driver to sit at the table with them. "Well Dick" said the youngster aside to his brother, "as he is our father, and it's his team. and he will bear the expense. I think we had better let him eat with us" "Yes, I think so too, under the circumstances," he replied.

Not long ago a bridegroom, returning home from his wedding, was met by a friend who thus addressed him, "Well, Jack, I'm glad to see thee in thy happy position; thou'st seen the end of thy trouble now." "Thank thee, lad," was Jack's answer, "I hope I have." About a month afterwards. the two friends again met, when Jack, speaking rather warmly, exclaimed, "Bill, thou telled me a lie that morning I got wed!-Didn't thou say I'd seen the end of my trouble?" Splitting the Difference.

A nice young gentleman in one of the Southern States, after a long and arduous courtship, found himself, one bright evening, the betrothed of a pretty girl, the very pink of modesty. On a certain occasion, "Yes, landlord, you can give him a place at ter lingering about the door for some time he was about to take his defaiture, and afin a fidget of anxiety he declared and protested to Miss Namey that he couldn't and wouldn't leave until she had kissed hun --Of course Miss Nancy blushed beautifully red, and protested in turn that she could not married—so now he had it. The altereation and debate became deep and exciting, until the betrothed buffed outright, and declared if he couldn't kiss her he wouldn't have her, and was marching off. She watched him to the gate, and saw "the fat was in the fire," unless something was done. *Come back then, "said she, coaxingly, "I'll split the difference with you-you may squeeze my hand!"

A Secret.

Love creates love, and augments it.-The secret of loving each other much, is to occupy ourselves much one with the other -to live much together, the closest and the most that we can.

In Zurich, in the olden time, when a quarrelsome couple applied for a divorce, he magistrate never listened to them. Before deciding upon the case, he locked them up for three days in the same room, with one bed, one table, one plate, and one tumbler. Their food was passed to them by attendants, who neither saw nor spoke to them. When they came out, at the end of three days, neither of them wanted to be divorced.

Saving Flower Seeds.

There is nothing so much neglected on the part of families, as the saving of seeds, of both flowers and vegetables, but especially the former; and this is the reason that there are to be seen so few annual flowers in gardens, especially those in rural districts. he ladies of a household should make it a particular duty, and indeed a pleasure, to save the seeds of all fine annuals, and this should be done as they mature. Little paper bags, or letter envelopes, with the name of each flower written on them, should be carried round, and the seed gathered into them at once, and sealed up. Only seeds from fully developed and mature pods should be gathered. It is a good plan to exchange seeds with your friends, when the flowers show the least diminution in their fullness and beauty, thus keeping up, by a change of soil, their original charac-

The slightest movement of a finger rings the bell, and thus in cases of suspended animution efforts are made to restore the body, instead of burying it alive, as no doubt often happens in this country. In Munich it is compulsory on the friends and relatives of all, whether rich or poor, to send the body to the dead house, and allow it to remain a certain number of days—the exact time I have forgotten. Nhen clothes are rolled up in a damp state for a few days, they become spotted with mildew, consisting of minute "fungi." These are very difficult to remove, and they injure both the texture and color of the clothes. The only effectual method known to us for removing such spots from linen is by steeping the latter in a weak liquor of chloride of lime. It is made by obtaining some chloride of lime from the druggist's, (say one pound), then stirring it into about tour gallons of cold water. It is now allowed to settle for one hour, and the clear" liquor is ready for the clothes, which should be steeped in it for about two hours, then washed thoroughly in cold water, and exposed on the grass to the sun.

There is a mild type of the rowdy, who injures himself more than society, who hurries himself towards the grave by intemperwho uses in his gusty warfare only the weat of Gettysburg: pons that nature gave him. But it is the virulent type that claims our attention; the full-fledged, sunguinary ruffian, who dreams of blood and outrage, and wakes to realize his dreams; who alternates between sensual enjoyment and murderous warfare; who has less sense of religion than a Pagan more ferocity than a Camanche, more rapa city than an Arab, and less courtesy than : Feger islander. He it is who walks by day and night, in the midst of peaceful commu nities, with weapons of death concealed in his hosom, to whose hand the bowie-knife and revolver come as familiar as the foreplane and mallet to the hand of the honest fest our largest cities : every now and then they surge up to the surface in New York, inanifest their strength in Philadelphia, darken the streets of New Orleans, or sweep in triumph through those of Baltimore. Their outrages in some cities have led to the dangerous thought of forming vigilance committees, after the example of San Francisco in her darkest days of trial But this is a revolutionary expedient, the last resort when every other means has failed.

Rowdyism, where it has been most fully triumphant, owes its strength to a generous weakness on the part of the law-and-orderloving majority. The opportunities of erushing it have been neglected from a mistaken sense of kindness and hopefulness. Mobs have been too often handled with a forbearance which no mob is ever entitled to. A mob is a raging monster, utterly insensible to reason, and only submissive to bayonet a bullet. When the occasion arises of a mob demonstration against law Saturday. and order, then is the time for a citizen soldiery to show its worth. One relentless volley of ball cartridges poured into the ranks of the rioters is worth more than all the pleadings and exhortations and argulips of all the world .- Ballou.

Death of an Aged Lady.

Mrs. Sarah Taylor, widow of Charles Taylor, aged 96 years, died in Chester, Pa., on the 21st ult., after a short illness. The Chester Republican says:

At the time of the battle of Brandywine, Mrs. Taylor resided in the family of Gideon Gilpin, a momber of the society of Friends, who, lived near Chadd's Ford, at that period. After the engagement, Gilpin's house was entered and pillaged by the British soldiers. The owner, being a non-combatant, the outrages upon his property were submitted to without resistance. 'Ilis dwel-Ting afterwards became the headquarters of the British officers. Mrs Taylor took an inclive part in the stirring events of that memorable day-furnished food to the Ainfericans, and assisted in dressing the wounds of those who were disabled in the contest. She had two brothers in the American army John, and Francis—the latter of whom was wounded. She distinctly recollected many of the incidents of the battle, and used to relate, them with great minuteness to those who visited her.

Execution of John Brown.

This celebrated individual, convicted of the high crimes of treason, insurrection and murder, paid the penalty of his infraction of the laws, by hanging, on Friday last, at Charlestown, Va. He was executed at a quarter past 11 o'clock. He exhibited his characteristic firmness to the last. He was not accompanied by any minister, as he desired to have no religious ceremonies either in the jail or on the scaffold. He looked calmly around on the masses of the people, seemingly self-possessed, and, with a few brief struggles, vielded up his spirit. As soon as life was known to be extinct, his body was placed in a coffin, and taken under a military escort, to Harper's Ferry, where Mrs. Brown was waiting to receive it, for the purpose of interring it at Albany, N. Y. She came on a day or two previous, and, we learn, has spoken in the highest terms of the kindness extended to her by the citizens and authorities of the State of Gas Meeting.

An adjourned meeting of the Citizens of the Borough, favorable to the organization of a Gas Company, was held at the Court House Monday evening last-the attendance being large and encouraging.

The several committees appointed to ascertain the probable number of full burners that would be used immediately upon the completion of the works, reported that they had ascertained that about 171 burners could be relied on, independent of the College and Seminary, where probably 60 additional burners would be used.

Prof. MUHLENBERG, made some interesting re marks based upon the statistics of a large number of Gas Works in operation in this State and elsewhere, going to show that not only is the Gas Light more economical for the consumer, but that the stock pays a handsome percentage upon the investments-ranging from 6 to 30 per cent.

Interesting Facts.

The undersigned were appointed a commit tee, at a meeting of the citizens of Gettysburg, held on Monday evening last, to collect and publish in the papers some facts upon the subject of gas-light. We desire therefore to present some statistics, for the information of our people, upon this subject with special reference to three particulars, the profits of gas companies, now existing in the United States, the economy of the light, and the necessary expenses connected with the first introduction of it into public edifices, and private dwellings. The present article is intended to show, quite bielly, the profits of gas compan

We have in our possession a copy of the American Gas-Light Journal, for Oct., 1859, in which are given statistical tables of 297 gas companies, now incorporated in the United States. Those tables embrace full particulars of the amount of their chartered capital, the price of shares, the population of the gas district, the number of private meters, price of gas for 1000 cubic feet, and the annual divcompiled the following results, upon the last particular above mentioned, the annual profits. Of the above 297 companies, 155 returned to the editors of the above paper, the annual percentage of profits, and this is a summary

We have also looked at the subject in a less extensive aspect, how the matter stands with reference to our own State. It appears from these same tables, that there are 43 incorpotated gas companies in Pennsylvania, in the large cities and smaller towns. The most prominent of these places are Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Allegheny, Reading, Laucaster, Harrisburg, York, Chambersburg, Carlisle, Lebanou, Potisville, Lewistown, Huntingdon, Easton, Norristown, &c.

> The Washington Star mentions the following incident:

"Upon the return home of Col. Washington from his imprisonment by Brown at Harper's Ferry, the most demonstrative enthusiasts in gladuess at his return were his dogs and negroes. A near neighbor of his, hearing the hubbub, and thinking that perhaps Capt. Cook had stolen down the mountains and made another attack on the Colonel's place, collected his negroes and started over to 'fan' the Captain out if necessary. Nearing the homestead, he was met by the jubilant darkeys, who, when asked what all this fuss meant, told the reinforcement that Massar's done come back safe and sound, au' we's killin' de fatted calf.' "

A GOOD HIT.-The Rev. Beccher calls Old Brown a "poor child-bereft old man." Hon. B. F. Hallet, of Massachusetts, in a recent speech said, this reminded him of a recent parricide in France. The man had cruelly murdered his father and mother, and of course he was an orphan by his own crimes, just as John Brown is "child-bereft" by his crimes. The parricide was convicted, and on being called up for sentence, was asked by the judge if he had anything to say? "Nothing," said he, "only I pray you to have pity upon a poor or-

A quiet Revolution is going on in Missouri, which will soon be seen in mark ed results. The slaves are constantly carried out of the State, and free laborers are coming in. This exodus of slaves may be occasionally retarded; but will go on till none are left. The prediction of Atchison is being fulfilled; that if Kansas was allowed to be a free Territory, Missouri must become a free State. The Missouri restriction proposed in 1820 was right, and it would have been carried had the men of those days had the least idea that the solemn compromise they made would be set uside, and dened with contempt in 1854 It is well, however, as it is. Those who cannot look into the domestic life of families afflicted by a great conflagration can have little idea of the distress which it sometimes brings. The New Orleans Picayune says:

An incident of the late fire in the third district furnishes a strong example of the sad desolation which it has entailed. A laboring man, by the toil and careful savings of himself and wife, during sixteen years, had accumulated a little sum, which he had invested in a house for the family. Year by year the spot where his affections were garnered grew more plesant to the eye, as shubbery carefully trimmed, flowers tenderly nourished, and vines taught to clamber over a portion unfolded a wealth of blossom and green shade. The fire on Saturday night laid waste the rustic scene. of domestic enjoyment, the sufferers only removing in safety a few of the least valuable articles of furniture, and their daughter, who had been confined to her bed by an illness of some days duration. The loss of the labor of sixteen years bore comparatively light upon both mother and father, through their anxiety for the welfare of their child. Renting a small enoment across the street from the smoking ruins, they bought a few articles for present comfort, and saw their daughter die .-While she was in her coffin in her new abode, the bells rang again, and the devasthing element was found close upon them. So rapidly did the fire spread, that they escaped from the house, saving no single article except the coffin containing the body of the daughter, which was deposited in NOMINATION.—The following gentlemen the open street. From California.

The most remarkable tidings from Cali- ny, all others of the tribe." fornia is that from the new mining region in the Washoe Valley, the richness of the yield surpassing anything ever before known in California. The San Francisco correspondent of the New York Times writes: "The vein now being worked is situated just over the line of California, in Utah Territory, distant about 175 miles from Sacramento eity-perfectly accessible by over that route to and from Salt Lake. The mines were discovered by a man named Bomstock, now here, and, as usual, he sold his claims for a small amount, to different parties, who are now working them. One company, known as the Walsh Company, are getting out at the rate of two tons a day of the silver ore, besides several tons of the quartz striped from the vein, which is yielding, by the Mexican "Atasta" process, over $400 per day; the gold is lessening as: 1,400 feet; next comes Bryant & Raymond, who own 50 feet, for which they paid $400 per foot, from which they have already ore, worth, by actual demonstration, about three thousand dollars per ton. From the Walch vein there has been received about twenty-eight tons, and 12 tons more out and way from $2,500 to $6,000 per ton, containing both gold and silver, but silver principally.

During the month of October $1,348,-000 worth of gold was deposited in the San Francisco mint for coinage, among which was a considerable amount of Fraser river dust. The total shipment of gold during October was $3,620,000.

Fire and Water Proof LASTIC CEMENT ROOFING. THE undersigned having purchased the right of W E. Child & Co's Patent i ite and Water Proof Clastic Coment Roofing, for Adams county, they respectfully announce to the public that they are prepared to a niract and put on the above roofing at the shortest; notice, in the best manuer and on the most reasonable terms. It is perfectly Fire and Waterproof, and in point of durability is equal, if not superior, to any Metallie Roofing. It can be put on over tin, tar, iron, or shingle roofs, however flator steep they may be.

In point of resisting the elements of fire and water, nothing has yet been discovered equal to the Elastic Cement. Those who have used it, have testified that it is the very perfection of Roofing, and that there is no further room for improvement .-No one will now think of putting on shingles, when this Cement can be had for much less money and will outwear four shingle roofs .-This Roofing is warranted as represented.

The Elastic Cement is the cheapest and best protection from decay for wood exposed to the weather or dampness of the ground. It is also the best paint for iron, effectually preventing rust; and wherever applied perfectly excludes dampness.

We have the Cement for sale in quantities to suit all. The Railrond buildings, the Warehouse of John Hoke, and a number of private buildings in this place, have been cov ered with it, where it can be seen. For further particulars apply to PERRY J. TATE,

EDER. S. PECHARIES
FAULT MEDICINES ARE the only preparations of the kind placed before the public under the name of flarrerie. They are called Eclectic because they are earefully and scientifically selected-the nest from all the coop-and approved by the most scientific men in the United States. They do not contain any

Mercury, Antimony, or Opium, or anything that would be deleterious to the most delicate constitution. All who understand the curing of disease know that medicines only assist nature, and unless they act and harmonize with nature, disease cannot be cured. Want of a proper knowledge of these facts causes many of our fellow citizens to go down to an untimely grave. I can therefore recommend this preparation with the utmost confidence, and am fully persuaded, from past experience at the bedside of the sick, that it will give very general, if not universal satisfaction. Yet, at the same time, I do not pretend to say that it is a cure-and or that it is, in all cases and circum-tances, intallible. For when a remedy is set forth as "Cure All," "Infallible," &c., the conclusion with me is presistible, that the proprietor himself believes his remedy to be a humbug, and designed from the start to decrive the public.
